SPEAK OF A MAN AS YOU FIND HIM.
BY G. E. LEE, Esq.

If a man has scattered his statements untrue, by saying one thing, never said him to say another, like those who say, "I am a man of your mind, master you, and speak of a man as you find him."

Of those who have large faults never utter loud words. No man is perfect. No man is perfect. No man is perfect.

There are some who would put the truth to the test. Religion, they say, is a test. I'll answer, if ever they pass through life's storm, I'll answer, if ever they pass through life's storm, I'll answer, if ever they pass through life's storm.

To purveyors of scandal who deem themselves wise. Of a fellow in a water wheel, which, being rolled over, increases in size. Of a fellow in a water wheel, which, being rolled over, increases in size.

So, if rumor speaks his statements untrue, Of a fellow in a water wheel, which, being rolled over, increases in size. Of a fellow in a water wheel, which, being rolled over, increases in size.

THE HEAD OF THE HOUSEHOLD.

Marmaduke Mellen was devotedly thankful that he was a man. Entertaining as he did, the idea that woman was vastly inferior, intellectually, he felt that he had reason to be so. For his wife, he had no reason to be so. For his wife, he had no reason to be so.

For his wife, he had no reason to be so. For his wife, he had no reason to be so. For his wife, he had no reason to be so. For his wife, he had no reason to be so.

The figures, pro and con, of the Foreign Trade of the United States, amount to six hundred and forty one millions of dollars, of which $296,138,000 is in the produce of the soil, and industry of the U. S., sold abroad; $41,138,000 in the produce of the Gold Mines of California, remitted abroad; $12,932,000 less than the total exports of year) $16,738,000 in Foreign Merchandise (exported) and $314,639,000 in Foreign Goods and Merchandise imported, of which $28,261,000 retained for consumption. Of the grand total of 11,225,000, the value of $482,267,000 was exported to market in Americas señe. The total crop of the year was without precedent in total marketed, and for this the income from road was $128,382,000. The income from Bread Provisions, $77,646,000, is also unexampled any previous year, while the exports, since these were made up no far to justify the calcula-that twenty five millions will be added for the year 1937; thus bringing the relative income from abroad in the farming and the planting estate, nearer than they have ever before been.

There is one other feature in these returns suggestive of special remark. To illustrate it more clearly we have dissected the Export and Import as reported by the Department, and present the result in the following tables, to the effect that in 1936, we sold more to Europe, in American Produce, exclusive of Gold, than we consumed in Eu-

...the other Spanish dependencies of Porto Rico and the Philippine Islands add $5,302,000 for the year ending March 31, 1909, and $5,302,000 to Brazil for Cuba, $3,321,000 to Venezuela and Chile and Ecuador, $25,691,000 to China for the Philippines, and $1,000,000 to the United States in debt. Our exports to British Australasia for the year reach $1,509,000, and to the other islands of the Pacific $1,000,000. Our exports to Japan $11,681,000, while we take from them $10,307,000. In every point of view our trade with the United States is the most important of the United States, notwithstanding which, because of the Spanish Colonial Policy in the Philippines, and the policy of the United States, and the monopoly of Cuba by Brazil and the United States, and of Peru by Chile, we have to resort to the United States for the purchase of our Foreign Trade, to London as the center of our Foreign Trade, and to the United States for the purchase of our Foreign Trade. The Report is much more extensive than the last one, and contains many interesting details.

NOTICES.

The Thirty-first Annual Report of the Wesleyan Society of the Wesleyan Methodist Church in Canada, comprising the period between 1895 and 1896, has been placed upon our table for perusal. The Report is most interesting and contains that of which we need, and forms a book of 128 pages of statistics and 80 pages of an explanatory and descriptive character. One cause of the increased size of the Report arises from the fact that the Societies in the United States and Canada have been united, and the operations of the Society in both Provinces, now given in one Report.

One cause of the increased size of the Report arises from the fact that the number of persons in the Province of Canada have been united, and the operations of the Society in both Provinces, now given in one Report. In looking over the Report it is gratifying to find that the benevolent and self-sacrificing spirit is not only maintaining but rapidly increasing its influence. The following conspicuous statement will serve for a general though not exhaustive illustration of the work of the Wesleyan Missionary operations in the Province of Canada:

At the Wesleyan Missionary College, the Wesleyan Missionary College of Science, they supported 21 Indian students, 52 Christian students, numerous Sabbath Schools, 2 Industrial Institutions, 20 Mission Stations, 125 churches, 1000 converts to Christianity, 100 interpreters, besides paying the contingent expenses of management, of the printing and of printing and publishing.

"HASTINGS CHRONICLE" CARRIER BOY'S ADDRESS.

A Happy New Year to you Ladies,
The same to you Gentlemen all,
Kind patrons, whatever your grade is,
High and low, rich and poor, great and small;
Auld and new acquaintances, all that are old,
And we hail their arrival with joy.
May I hope that your hearts will be cheered,
By the song of the Chronicle boy.

Some poets lap in numbers sweet
The most charming of the Spring
The gorgeous Summer others greet,
Its radiant glories sing.
The plaintive notes that Autumn yields
Auld a nobler theme,
When bounteous nature clothes our fields,
And bursts with riches seen.
Of the glories of Spring,
And the varied delights the Summer may bring,
For my life I cannot sing.
Yet of all other seasons, the Winter for me—
With its piercing cold,
Which, you need not be told,
Puts fingers, toes, ears and nose sometimes in danger,
For not in its charms
Instead of alarm,
"Strange fact" that "ay you" say, but many far stronger.

Now if you gravenly ask the reason
Why I'm so pining in this season,
I own I'm not the least objection
To answer for my predicament.
You know I'm a victim of every creature,
That "self preservation" is the law of nature;
Tied to a subject on which most men are always at fault,
Ruled by a species of mental philosophy.
But our worldly prospects would soon go to smash,
If we did not succeed in collecting some cash;
For this theory, we've an illustrious example in
No less a person than Benjamin Franklin.
I need not, therefore, say,
In this our much enlightened age,
To do my utmost to advance
My interest with every chance;
And will be readily satisfied,
In nineteen cases out of twenty,
To do so, there's no time so fitted,
As when the money is most plenty.
And, ay, it winter not that time?
Though round our wharves there's nought but sadness,
When through the streets the tinkling chime
Reminds with notes of gladness
Of those auld jingles, "The Merry Bells,"
Which we hear so often in the streets,
Sweeping gaily along with the wife by his side,
And the products of industry here are bringing—
When dollars are flying,
And each Lady is saying
Her Hooray, for her Gaudy, and soft Victorine, as
A means to preserve her from cold,
When Holiday gifts and superb equipages
Are treasured by millions of blushing damsels, as
The proofs of affection.

Now then, tell me, do I not here give
A quainter style of reasons,
Why, for all who would live and live,
This Winter's the gem of the seasons?

You sacred Nine who haunt Parnassus' glade!
Be doubly so, in my invocation;
With a flood of supernatural thought, inspire,
Grant but one spark of true poetic fire.
Dare I then hope to be inspired by you—
To make an earnest wish, to be inspired by you—
I expect you'll leave your sacred mountain
To make a stream rise higher than its fountain?
"No," then vain is my hope and desire,
And, methinks, Misses, you know it,
Poesy's genius I never can inspire,
If I never was a poet.
Yet, hope, I own, I may yet succeed,
And now, as 'twas evening's shade around,
And 'twas now that I write to read,

I'll take a stroll where the moonbeams glance;
And I'll hear about how in days of yore,
Some larks again, when deprived of sunlight,
And try to meditate on the cruel fate of
In the aerial fairs of love and moonlight.
Then away by the ice-bound stream I'll wander,
And try to meditate on the cruel fate of
And, while on the passing evening I ponder,
My thoughts ridiculous with thought sublime.

But back! the Train's approach I hear—
It's most unseasonably here,
There 's again, in the drawing deer,
It comes along pell-mell—
Whetting, coughing, puffing, snoring,
And the rumbling of the wheels, rattling,
One eye in her forehead, like old Polypheusus,
While the fumes from her nostril roll towards the south,
Spitting steam, hissing sparks from her bowels of flame, as
As serpent do for with a pipe in his mouth.
Pat me the sweeps, Oh! what a thunderer,
Earth's solid framework trembles under her,
As she rushes along on her iron course,
Appropriate type of restless force,
Her exultant screams this truth attest,
That "Nil mortalius ardeat est."

Now this perhaps may seem to be a
Very poetical idea,
But better still, let me have believed it,
Considering how I received it!
But I'm in hope that it's not faded
To long continued isolation.
For that engine, that with might and main
Has dragged along one lengthy train,
Another has originated
Is my most poetic brain.
It awakens the thought of our forward position,
Of our prominent place in the late Exhibition,
When the Frank, and the Austrian, Bavarian and Hessian,
The Dane, and the Belgian, the Swede and Norwegian,
The laborious Dutch, the scientific French, the English,
Had to bow to the genius of a native Canadian.
Even Britain herself had to own a defeat,
With the genius of Perry she could not compete;
It awakens the thought of our rapid progress,
While the watchword of "Onward" is heard to resound,
While each tangle, in rapid succession,
Encountered with might, is with victory crowned.
Then the mind takes a glance at our State education,
With its cardinal motto, that "knowledge is power,"
Diffusing that light which exalts a nation,
While in vain the blind patrons of ignorance lower.

Thus as theme follows theme, we're led to contrast
With our present enjoyments, the toils of the past,
No people have cause to be proud;
Yet faults not few, in our Administration,
Cause the people to cry for a great reformation,
With a voice rising louder and louder.
But this opens a theme of a different sort,
And a theme that is fraught with too much import
For me to justice to bear.
Besides for the Devil's rather too critical,
Who cannot descend upon subjects political,
Then the mind takes a glance at our State education,
With its cardinal motto, that "knowledge is power,"
Diffusing that light which exalts a nation,
While in vain the blind patrons of ignorance lower.

Now, while I ponder I ask for so much of your time,
Of which I must own I am reckless,
Don't you think that, while striving to save the sublime,
I've succeeded in being ridiculous!

Then a Happy New Year to you Ladies,
The same to you Gentlemen all,
Kind patrons, whatever your grade is,
High and low, rich and poor, great and small;
Auld and new acquaintances, all that are old,
And we hail their arrival with joy.
May your hopes and your prospects grow brighter,
Your cares and anxieties low,
Your labours grow lighter and lighter,
And from earth may your exit be peace.

HOG SLAUGHTERING.
From the Cincinnati Gazette, Dec. 15.

Dear Creek—by some called Gulgulga, from the great slaughter of hogs committed within its limits—is a place of much activity at this period of the year. A large proportion of the hogs that about the city are raised, are sent to this place in this direction, find a stopping place and a place to die in this valley. Here, too, the most important improvements for dressing the hogs and working up the carcasses are found. There is much, therefore, in Deer Creek, worth seeing. The work of investigation, however, is not as pleasant as it might be. The hogs are packed in mud, blood, and other filthy ingredients, and the air is full of the same. The atmosphere, also, is full of the same. The hogs are packed in mud, blood, and other filthy ingredients, and the air is full of the same. The atmosphere, also, is full of the same.

Port's Corner.
BY AND BY.
A school boy sits with a troubled look,
And a frown upon his brow,
He has pondered long o'er that dreary book,
He has read and weary now,
But quickly a glad and joyous light,
Shines from his dark, thoughtful eye,
He thinks of the future with rapture bright,
And whispers "By and by."

A youth standing with folded arms,
And a brow with thought's unrest,
His cheek is flushed with life-blood warm,
And he looks with joy at a coming year,
And noble purpose and serene resolve,
Are written on his forehead high,
And glorious thoughts in his breast rove,
As he murmurs "By and by."

And manhood with hand and busy care,
Is waiting his life away,
Till, contented, full, four years to year,
He comes back, a man, a man,
With a crown of glory and a heart of steel,
And a heart of steel and a heart of steel,
And a heart of steel and a heart of steel,
And a heart of steel and a heart of steel.

Seagull and Whiffy Railroad!
From the Ottawa Indicator.

Our friend Ned, who always takes a lively interest in everything which has for its object the welfare of our country, has, after much mental research and physical labor, been able to lay before our readers (what he supposes will be) the rules and regulations of the "Seagull and Whiffy Railroad."

Mr. Editor—Please put the top piece in big type, and as you will it yourself. You see I want to get an office (if you get the road) and they might, and then they might make a station there for the Seagull and Whiffy Railroad.

You see it's time to be looking out for them already, especially in the winter, when they are so much in the way. They will not be so much in the way in the summer, when they are so much in the way.

They will not be so much in the way in the summer, when they are so much in the way. They will not be so much in the way in the summer, when they are so much in the way.

ARTIFICIAL STONE.
The new discovery, patented by Mr. Hendley, whereby blocks of Artificial Stone are manufactured out of the constituents of sand and lime, compressed together by powerful machinery and faced with marble, presenting an exterior of the latter, is, in our view, one of the great channel of the 19th century. Indeed, there is some reason to believe that this is merely the re-discovery of an art that is well known to the builders of the Pyramids and other similar structures of antiquity.

The formation of Artificial Stone and Marble is a problem that has long engaged the attention of chemists and architects, but until the discovery, it seems that indifference to success has attended their efforts. Patents have been taken out from time to time, in England, France, and the United States, for processes by which it was supposed the object had been attained.

The present, we believe, is the first attempt made to combine marble and stone together, and present as with a perfect imitation of the latter, and is, in our view, the most successful yet achieved. In October, 1844, Mr. Hendley obtained a patent in England, by which he was enabled to produce, by pressure, (vide London Journal of Arts, vol. 26, p. 307.) This was simply compressed mortar, and the enterprise proved a failure, because he attempted the manufacture of large and costly blocks by expensive machinery, using the material in a plastic state, and not making a sufficient allowance for the inconspicuous quality of water, by the action of the atmosphere. This also proved unsuccessful, from the non-amalgamation of the stone and marble, the particles were too easily disintegrated, and the blocks soon crumbled and wasted away.

The difference between Mr. Hendley's process and those of Messrs. Kasse and Fontaine, lies in a more careful manipulation of the ingredients and placing them in the mold, neither in the plastic state of the one, nor the anhydrous state of the other. He also uses lime, the state called "bestard," which causes the composition to set equally well in water and in air.

To enumerate the different Patents and processes for making Artificial Marble, would be a long task. The object here aimed at was to combine foreign ingredients, and to make the most elaborate moldings can be manufactured out of the marble now thrown away as refuse by quarries. The particular use of (what is called "bestard") lime, and the strength of the blocks, and consequent durability of the structure which may be composed of them, is in all respects a new discovery.

Indeed, in consequence of the G. T. R. R. being in the habit of carrying on the coast, the highest water level could not be reached. He asked pieces from one of the blocks, one inch square, and subjected them to 5,000 lbs. before they gave way. The blocks can be manufactured at less than half the cost of brick, and present the appearance of cut stone. They are far superior in this climate to either brick or stone, as they are cast with a perforation that gives all the advantage of "hollow wall."

The best proof that this is a real invention, is the eager desire of practical men to possess the right to manufacture. We understood the "right" for this country (York) has been sold for $30,000—Globe.

Among the passengers by the Baltic were Cyrus W. Field, Esq., and family. Mr. Field has been several years in the service of the Telegraph Company. His whole of life has been devoted to the construction of the cable, and he is now engaged in the construction of the cable.

The manufacture of the cable is being preceded by it. It is believed that by the use of the cable, the distance between the two ends of the cable will be reduced to 10,000 miles. The distance between the two ends of the cable will be reduced to 10,000 miles.

IMPORTANT NUMBERS.
(From the China Herald.)
The slaughter of the Eastern King has been rumored, reported, and finally announced by a semi-official note. These accounts differ widely, and would seem to have reached Shanghai through different channels. Early in the week it was rumored here and there, that there had been a "row" between the rebel leaders—

"It was reported that the Eastern King had been betrayed, and that more than ten thousand of the rebels had fallen by each other's hands. The story, it was said, began between the eastern and the northern Kings—the former demanding supplies of gunpowder which had been refused to grant. From words they came to blows, and almost the whole city of Nanking was soon in an uproar.

The semi-official note we have come to publish: it purports to have been from the signature of the city of Tiansung, and the facts detailed to have been given by a trustworthy eye, to the effect that there had been an old quarrel between the eastern and northern Kings, that the eastern King had been betrayed, and that more than ten thousand of the rebels had fallen by each other's hands.

The Niagara Mail of the 7th instant, says rather a commotion was excited on Monday in the neighborhood about the corner of Queen and Regent Streets, by the discovery of the moonlight flitting of a dashing Yankee Dentist, who for a year past had been living on the fat of the land at the expense of sundry credulous Grocers, Dry Goods men, Cabinet Makers, Butchers, Bakers, and everybody else, in short, who would trust anything to a slick tongue and blue coat with hair.

believe there are not less than ten thousand dram-shops in this city, with at least five thousand more in its adjacent towns and suburbs. Though the closing year has been one of general prosperity, yet our Alma-House was never fuller, and our charitable establishments are crowded—mainly with the victims of intemperance—either their own or that of others. The following table will show what have been the aggregates of serious crimes within our city during 1856:

Four or six bottles are warranted to cure
and running ulcers.
One bottle will cure scaly eruptions of the skin.
Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the wheat of the throat.
Two or three bottles are warranted to cure the desperate case of rheumatism.
Three or four bottles are warranted to cure
the venereal disease.
Five or eight bottles will cure the worst case of scurvy.

A benefit is always experienced from the first dose and a perfect cure is warranted when the above quantity is taken.

Nothing looks so improbable to those who have already in vain tried all the wonderful medicines of the day, as that a common weed growing on the roadside and along old stone walls, should cure every kind of rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, and all the other pains of the system; yet it is a fact. If you have a chance to see the systemer yet in a field of corn, you will find it here to be seen. There are no fine, hot, white, blushing cheeks about it, nothing more rare, but not so much to be sought for, a hundred bottles of it in the village

D. R. doctor, I knew the effects of it in every case. It already done some of the grand cures ever done. Muscularly. I gave it to children a year ago, and old people of sixty. I have seen poor, puer, worn looking children, whose flesh was soft and flabby, turned in a perfect state of health by one bottle.

To those who are subject in a sick headache, the bottle will always cure it.

It has cured many of those who have taken it tooth and distemper.

It has cured many of those who have taken it colds and coughs, and have been regulated by their regular taking it, with quite good results.

where there is any derangement of the functional nature it will cause very singular feelings, but must not be misinterpreted, they always disappear in four days to a week. There is never a bad result from it; on the contrary, when that feeling is over you will feel yourself like a new person. It is one of the most extravagant economies of it ever manifested to me.
